SURVIVOR EDUCATION &
CONTENT DIRECTOR
SAFE HOUSE PROJECT

Sarah is Safe House Project's Survivor Content Creator. She has been working in the anti-trafficking movement for the past 3 years, having spent the last year with the Safe House Project. She sits on the board for a state survivor's council, has been a consultant for several nonprofits in the field, and is the author of 2 books. Her need for anonymity as a sex-trafficking survivor has not stopped her from working toward eradicating sex trafficking so that no child has to endure what she did as a small child.
